MEIGHEN IS THROUGH LIBERALS ARE WINNERS

Two recent notable newspaper utterances show the trend of the present political campaign. The Vancouver Sun says Mr. Meighen is through. The Ottawa Citizen adds the last session's Liberal Budget is an Election winner. Read the comment:

(From the Vancouver Sun, August 19):

CANADA WON'T GO BACK

"Mr. Meighen is through. He knows it. The public now knows it. And he knows that the public knows it. Anyone who listened to his address last night will feel how hopelessly he is temperamentally out of tune with the new spirit of a growing and prosperous Canada.

Nothing that Arthur Meighen, even in his able way, can tell the people of Vancouver and the West will ever persuade them to go back to the stagnation and autocracy of Conservatism.

Time was when Canadians were nervous. Conservative leaders could produce their bogeys of annexation, of blue ruin, and feighen the Canadian people half to death. They could wave their flags and make the Canadian people weep. They could terrify them into even submitting to the pernicious system of special privilege.

But that period of national hypochondria has passed. Signs of prosperity, of growing national vigor, have driven this neurosis out of Canadian public life.

Prejudice, precedent and bigotry are losing their old-time influence.

CANADA IS TODAY SWINGING INTO A PROSPEROUS ERA. AND CANADIANS REALIZE THAT LIBERALISM IS A POSITIVE FORCE AND CONSERVATISM A NEGATIVE NEGATIVE FORCE. THE NATION CAN NOT AFFORD TO GO BACK UNDER CONSERVATIVE DOMINATION. THIS COUNTRY MUST GROW UPWARD, LIKE THE LEAVES AND BRANCHES OF A TREE, NOT DIG IN AND HOLD FAST, LIKE THE ROOTS.

What did Mr. Meighen offer the Western provinces that would tempt them to go back? What can the grain growing West find in a policy that brands equalized freight rates to the Pacific seaboard as "indefensible," that would raise up a tariff wall against every product the farmer needs and uses?

What can Mr. Meighen offer the Maritimes? He talks of freight rate relief for the Maritimes. But they want their goods for nothing and still give them no relief, because these goods are duplicated in Toronto and Montreal. The Maritimes want is a measure of trade with the great markets of New York and Boston.

What has Mr. Meighen, opposing freight rates, opposing trade treaties with sister Dominions in Australia, to offer British Columbia and Vancouver?

Some time in the future Conservatives may produce a man who will dynamise Conservative theories, vitalize them into progressive action.

Mr. Meighen, though intellectual, is essentially destructive. Last night there was not a note in his speech that would raise hope, promote optimism not stimulate the energy of the Canadian people.

Canada and the Canadian people will never respond to the bigoted, anti-British, anti-trade and anti-American theories of frigid Arthur Meighen."

From the Ottawa Citizen, Aug. 23:

ELECTION PLANKS THAT COUNT.

"At the opening of the election campaign, Conservative leaders treated the question lightly by saying, "There is no constitutional issue." The success of Mr. King's tour in the West has shown that they understood the importance of the question. There is more public interest in it than there is scandalmongering about the Department of Customs.

The Conservative party apparently expected to sweep the country entirely on the question of customs administration. But in addition to the initial blunder of rushing into office, Mr. Meighen's crusade for political purity opened up with a false note. He made the unfortunate choice of taking Mr. Doucet with him, to make vilifying statements about Hon. Ernest Lapointe on an alleged carouse with Jacques Bureau aboard the government patrol vessel Margaret. He countenanced this vilification at meeting after meeting until the protests of Conservatives, as well as Liberals, brought on an inquiry which completely exposed the dishonesty of the opening assault on the former Liberal administration.

At the same time, soon after the opening of Mr. Meighen's campaign based on scandal, Inspector Walter Duncan discredited another scandalous statement made by the Conservative leader's travelling companion, Mr. Doucet. The government's own inspector publicly denied that parts of the Duncan report had ever been held from publication.

But Mr. Meighen continued to be unfortunate in the choice of travelling companions in the campaign. Mr. Nicholson untertook to support the Conservative cause with a disgraceful statement about a departmental building in Ottawa. He subsequently denied making the statement, shifting the blame to the reporter. But the reporter caught him red-handed, with documentary evidence.

It is too late in the campaign for the Conservative leader to shift the line of attack from scandalmongering to the old flag-waving appeal. NOR CAN HE WAVE THE FLAG WITH THE SAME OLD GUSTO. HE IS NOW DEEPLY INVOLVED WITH MR. PATERSON. UNLESS THE CONSERVATIVES CAN DISCOVER SOME NEW POISON GAS, THEY ARE LEFT TO CARRY ON LAST THREE WEEKS WITH NOTHING MORE POTENT THAN THE STINK BOMBS OF SCANDAL.

"LAST SESSION'S LIBERAL BUDGET IS A WINNER. THE INCOME REDUCTIONS, THE LOWERING OF DUTIES ON AUTOMOBILES — ACCOMPANIED BY A TREMENDOUS SPEEDING UP OF THE INDUSTRY—RETURN TO THE PENNY POSTAGE, ABOLITION OF THE RECEIPT TAX, REDUCTION OF THE SALES TAX ON SOME COMMODITIES, ALL COMMEND THEMSELVES HEARTILY TO THE ELECTORATE. They encourage confidence in the return of the Liberal administration. Conservative leaders were badly beaten when they set out to win an election on scandal. The Liberals and Progressives have the election planks that count, and the country is prosperous.

HUFF FAMILY RE-UNION

U. E. L. CELEBRATION.

The re-union of the descendants of Paul and Solomon Huff, two United Empire Loyalists, who landed at what is now Adolphustown, Ontario, on the Bay of Quinte, after the war of Independence in 1784, was held at that place on Thursday, the 26th of August, when the old church, built on the Huff farm in 1792, still standing, was filled with members of the Huff Family, who attended from various parts of Canada, the United States and from Australia.

W. G. Mikel, K.C., Ex-Mayor of Belleville, addressed those present in the old church on the coming U. E. L. Celebration to be held in 1929. Mr. Mikel said the United Empire Loyalists Association of Canada in November, 1922, passed a resolution recommending that a U. E. L. Celebration should be held in June, 1924, to commemorate the 104th anniversary of the landing of the Loyalists, and also every five years thereafter, to focus attention on the services and sacrifices of the United Empire Loyalists. Pursuant to this resolution the big U. E. L. Celebration was held at Belleville in 1924, when Mr. Mikel was Mayor of Belleville. Fully sixty thousand U. E. Loyalists and their families attended during the five days of that celebration, and it was at this celebration that the Huff Family Association was formed.

In 1929 the next U. E. L. Celebration will be held and Mr. Mikel suggested that the U. E. Loyalists commence to lay plans now as a considerable amount of time is required to complete arrangements for a celebration worthy of the event. Picton, Napanee, Kingston, Brockville, Ottawa, Toronto, Niagara Falls, and St. Catherines have already been mentioned, as Windsor, owing to the fact that Detroit remained in the hands of the British for a time after the war, and there are now residing in Detroit, Windsor, and vicinity many descendants of original U. E. Loyalists. He said Belleville would gladly take on the celebration again, but was willing to see the honor pass around to other places.

TOWN COUNCIL

Council Chamber,
August 30th, 1926.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening to receive the Auditor's Report and any other business which may come up before it.

The Auditor's reported that all receipts and disbursements were properly accounted for and a full statement was presented of the town's finances to date.

The Auditor's Report was on motion accepted.

An account of R. Easton Burns, $50.00, for auditing our town books, was on motion, ordered paid.

Following is the report of the Auditor:

To The Mayor and Council,
Town of Napanee.

As instructed, I have examined the accounts and vouchers of your Treasurer from January 1st, 1926, to August 23rd, 1926, for the purpose of certifying to the correctness of the accounts to that date.

I hereby certify that all disbursements have been authorized and receipted for, that the balances shown in the detailed statements and schedules agree with the Bank pass books, and that all receipts acknowledged have been promptly deposited.

A certificate has been secured from the Tax Collector as to the amount deposited to the credit of the Treasurer's account.

It being impossible in the time allotted to obtain confirmation of some of the items of receipts, such as fines, licenses, etc., I have attached schedules showing these items in detail so that you may make a further check by consulting the records of the Chief of Police if you see fit.

I have pleasure in certifying that the accounts are neatly and correctly kept, with vouchers available as required.

R. EASTON BURNS,
Chartered Accountant.

On motion the matter of the Treasurer's office and equipment was left in the hands of the Finance Committee.

Council adjourned.

—o—

Great preparations are being made for the reception of Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, who will address a meeting of the electors in the Napanee Armouries on the evening of Sept. 9th, in the interest of Mr. H. H. Horsey, the Liberal candidate for Prince Edward-Lennox.

LENNOX COUNTY FAIR

DESPITE SOME UNFAVORABLE WEATHER NAPANEE FAIR DRAWS LARGE CROWDS

On Tuesday morning, splendid weather greeted the opening of the Fair and everything was set to hold the biggest and best Fair ever given. Many improvements had been made for this year's Fair. The grand stand has been lengthened 50 feet, the poultry house doubled and enclosed in glass, and a number of new sheep and pig houses erected.

In entering the Palace one was impressed with a sense of brightness by the fine display of fruit and flowers on the centre table running the length of the building, and by the tastefully displayed articles in the booths on either side.

The booths on either side of the main entrance were occupied by a fine exhibition of ladies' Fancy Work, etc. On the right side of the building were the following: Webster's Grocery, excellent display; Hydro Electric exhibit, bright and illuminating; James MacGillivray, charming and most artistic; Arthur A. Sills, hardwood flooring, with specimens of the finished product; Paul's Bookstore, a tasteful showing of the merchandise they carry in the store; Deseronto canned goods, put up by the Metcalfe Canning Co. At the end of the building by the western entrance, was a fine showing of home-made pastry, bread, buns, butter, cooked meats, and dressed poultry. Continuing around the building were the magnificent display of furs by John McKay, Ltd., Kingston. Then the very fine showing of pianos and other musical instruments by H. L. VanLuven. Next the Art exhibits, which were particularly fine this year. A fine display was made in the Churchwoman's Aid booth of articles beautiful and useful. And last, but by no means least, the fine fur display of Goudier, Kingston.

The Napanee merchants were not in evidence here as they should be and some of those who exhibited in former years have dropped out. Perhaps the fault is in the method which has been in vogue here of setting up a nice attractive exhibit, with nobody to look after it, and then expect to get results—like the man who advertises "please come in and look over my stock before buying elsewhere." The Toronto Fair and all other fairs expert salesmen are put in charge of the exhibits and they make sales. Napanee Fair offers a fine opportunity to keen business men to largely increase their turn-overs. Think about it—and act.

The exhibits of all classes throughout the grounds are good. The poultry showing is particularly fine and the variety numerous. Owing to the earlier date of the exhibition and the lateness of the crops maturing this year, vegetable exhibits were not up to the mark in quantity, but what was shown was of excellent quality.

The races were cancelled on the first day, the three days of rain having made it impossible to use the track until Wednesday. The races were doubled up on Wednesday and Thursday, three races being put on the programme instead of two.

Very large crowds were in attendance for the evening performances in front of the grand stand, even though the weather was not as good as might be wished for.

A large number of babies were presented at the Baby Show on Tuesday evening. Dr. Duane Hall and Miss Robertson, V.O.N., had a difficult job to place the prizes, all were so good.

The winners were:
Boys, 3 to 12 months—Franklin Connor, Leslie Cooper.
Boys, 12 to 18 months—Duane Whitmarsh.
Girls 3 to 12 months—Rita Shannon, Marjorie McTaggart.
Girls, 12 to 18 months—Margaret Hendricks, Helen Thompson.
Special Prize, Twins—Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lasher.

On Wednesday afternoon Adolphustown won from Odessa in an interesting game of baseball and two horse races were put on as well as the exhibition of horsemanship by the R.C.H.A., the performing ponies and dogs and the Cobourg Kilties Band.

Timekeepers—E. J. Metcalfe and Chas. Boyes, Kingston.

Starter—Jesse Johnston, Dorland.

Thursday's attendance was the largest of the Fair, at least some thousand people being present, with splendid weather up till 5 p.m., when a shower interfered somewhat.

The outstanding events of the day were the judging of single and double driving horses and there was a grand array of fine turnouts. The fine music of the Highlanders' Band was duly appreciated, as were the fine exhibitions of horsemanship, given by the R.M.C. Riding Academy. A good game of baseball between Kingston and Circle Six and Newburgh was won by Newburgh, score 3 to 4, and the game secured a large audience.

A MESSAGE TO THE ELECTORS OF PRINCE EDWARD-LENNOX

Another Federal Election is upon us and a candidate has been chosen to carry the Liberal banner to victory. That man is H. H. Horsey, and he is no stranger to any of us.

There is a swing of victory in the air. Mr. Horsey has the best chance of winning. But he cannot win alone. He must have help. Electors must rally around him to help him carry the riding.

Many of us have not been overly active in past elections. We have taken political events as a matter of fact. This campaign will be short. Our opponents will be most active. Those who want Liberal, Progressive Government must jump into this contest with vigor and redeem Prince Edward-Lennox. It can be done. Will you help turn the tide in favor of the Liberal candidate?

You are not asked to make an personal sacrifice. You are not required to endure the rigors of a long arduous election campaign. You are simply urged to lend a helping hand, with your presence and influence at every meeting in your division, rural or urban.

Will you therefore come out once more and help enthuse others at the organization meetings and around the committee rooms, and thus be a help and an inspiration in putting on one of the keenest campaigns that the Liberals of this riding ever staged.

Let us all get together and elect H. H. Horsey.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BY G. C. TRUMBULL,
(Editor of The Sunday School Times.)

THE TENT OF MEETING.

Sunday, Sept. 5.—Exodus 33.

Golden Text—The Lord spake unto Moses face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend (Exod. 33 : 14).

Another tragic sin in Israel's life breaks into the record between last Sunday's lesson and this. We left her receiving the Ten Commandments from God. The foundation commands were that Israel should have no other Gods before Jehovah, and should not make any graven images to bow down to. The people had "answered with one voice and said, All the words which the Lord hath said will we do" (Exod. 24 : 3). Then, while Moses was in the mount with God, the people under Aaron's leadership made a golden calf, said of it, "These be thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt," and worshipped it. This worship was evidently accompanied by such sins as characterized idol worship in that day.

God had to deal with Israel, then, in terrible judgment for her sin. Three thousand lost their lives, and destruction threatened them all. But Moses came forward as Israel's intercessor. He offered one of the greatest prayers in Scripture, as he confessed his people's sin unto God, and said: "Yet now, if thou will forgive their sin—; and if not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou hast written." Moses here shines forth again as a type of Christ. It reminds us of Paul's agonized cry for Israel: "I could wish that myself were accursed from Christ for my brethren, my kinsmen according to the flesh" (Rom. 9 : 3).

God spared Israel as a nation, even after the blasphemous idolatry of the golden calf, as He has continually spared her—and us.

Moses now pitched the "tent of meeting," outside the camp, "afar off from the camp," and met with the Lord there. The tent, or tabernacle, is not to be confused with the great and elaborate tabernacle for which detailed directions were given to Moses in the mount. That had not yet been built, as later chapters in Exodus show. It is believed that the tent of meeting referred to in our lesson was the simple structure described in Exodus 24 : 4—an altar and 12 pillars.

But, simple though the tent of meeting was, God honored it with His presence, and with one of the most beautiful fellowships between God and man recorded anywhere in the Scriptures—and that means, in the history of the world. "The cloudy pillar descended, and stood at the door of the tabernacle, and the Lord talked with Moses." Then come the words of the Golden Text.

Think of having God speak to you "as a man speaketh unto his friend"! Abraham "was called the Friend of God" (James 2 : 23). But the rare honor and privilege of Abraham and Moses is given to every one who receives Christ as Saviour and Lord. His words to His disciples are for all who will take them: "I have called you friends" (John 15 : 15).

Not only was Moses a type of Christ, but so also was the tent of meeting. It was a place where God met with man. Christ is now the only such place. "For there is one God and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus (I. Tim. 2 : 5). And Christ, by His shed blood, has made possible for all believers that access to and fellowship with God which was possible in Israel's day, only for a chosen few, like Moses and the priests. To all who trust Christ as Saviour the apostle writes, "Now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were afar off are made nigh by the blood of Christ" (Eph. 2 : 13). "Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need" (Heb. 4 : 16).

In the tent of meeting Moses had a very blessed and wonderful experience. God had told him "I know thee by name"; and our Shepherd, Christ, "calleth His own sheep by name" (John 10 : 3).

God had said to Moses, "Thou hast also found grace in My sight." Christ says to us, "My grace is sufficient for thee" (II. Cor. 12 : 9).

God said to Moses, "My presence shall go with thee, and I will give thee rest." The Lord Jesus says: "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest" (Matt. 11 : 28). "And, lo, I am with you alway" (Matt. 28 : 20).

Man's Index Finger.

Man's hand is arranged as to finger lengths like the monkey's. The primitive plan was for the third finger to be the longest, the fourth the next in length, the second the next, the fifth or little finger the next, while the thumb is shortest of all. The editor of the Journal of American Heredity declares that it is very commonly discovered that the first or index finger is as long or longer than the fourth, and this is doubtless due to the functional importance of the index finger. "I am not sure," he says, "that it should not be considered as the typical human condition."

Big Catches.

Anglers on the coast of Florida often catch sharks weighing 150 pounds with a 16 ounce rod. On the Californian coast, too, huge sharks, 12 feet or 15 feet long are hooged. Occasionally a tartar is caught which ends the business by smashing not only the line but the boat. The gentlemen anglers of the Californian coast actually have a challenge cup for the biggest swordfish caught in the course of the season. The record is a fish 150 pounds in weight, and the sport is described as about as exciting as tiger hunting.

Jerusalem's History.

At the time of the birth of Christ Judea, in which the city of Jerusalem was situated, was a possession or dependency of Rome. In the year 70 A. D., about thirty-five years after the death of Christ, Jerusalem was captured by the Romans under Emperor Titus and was destroyed. It was rebuilt by the Romans and held successfully for varying periods by them, by the Persians, by the Mohammedans, by the Crusaders and by the Turks.

WOMEN EXCEL MEN DRIVERS

BY ERWIN GREER
(President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago, Ill.

Letters come in to me from all over the country. A few are constructive, others pathetic, and some downright ridiculous. I leave you to draw your own conclusions from the following :

Dear Mr. Greer :

The other evening I was in a hurry to get to the theatre and was going as fast as the law would allow. I soon overhauled an automobile that insisted on hogging the car tracks. Now the driver of that car seemed in no hurry to get anywhere but still paid no attention to my horn—wouldn't pull over to the right, despite the fact that there was nothing between that car and the curb. Being obliged to get past I pulled away out on the opposite side of the street, and as I passed a woman's voice yelled at me in derision. What kind of monkey business was that? I have repeatedly noticed that women drivers won't play fair. They won't obey the rules and they seem "cornery" about it. And you, Mr. Greer, are the fellow that is boosting women drivers, claiming that they are better than men drivers. Bah!

Yours truly,
Jim Ettinge.

My dear Jim :

Because one woman driver is a wee bit dizzy you blame the whole tribe of females. But about the mean drivers you meet in a day's work; how many of them attain your ideas of what a good driver should do. Most certainly you can't blame the majority of the motorists just because one of them doesn't play the game, nor can you judge others by yourself. Who knows but what this particular woman driver had a fight with hubby the night you tried to make her pull over and was out to get back at the men in general? Surely, you could have put a finger on your horn button and held it there until she did get over. I've seen a number of men and women drivers shamed in this manner—the idea being to attract everybody's attention to their hoggishness.

Despite your claims I am for the ladies—God bless 'em—because it has been proven by A. A. A. tests that they are far more intelligent than men when it comes to handling automobiles. Be fair, Jim, give the law of averages a chance to work before you pick on any more women.

Is the Converse True?

The Chinese have a proverb directed against "babblers," for whom they have a particular aversion. Is it applicable in America? "The great church bells rarely sound; the full cask returns no sound."

Keeping Cut Flowers Fresh.

The length of time cut flowers can be kept can be greatly lengthened by putting a little saltpeter or carbonate of soda in the water in which they are kept.

As Usual.

The man who is always telling what a perfectly lovely place he used to live in makes you wonder how he ever came to leave such an Eden.—Farm Life.

Almost Any Excuse Goes.

Mutual Obligations.

Husbands should be frank and tell their wives everything," says a woman writer. Yes, and wives should be generous and believe it.

BEER COMES TO PORT OF BELLEVILLE IN TRUCKS ON HIGHWAYS

SHIPMENTS ARE MADE IN DIRECT CONTRAVENTION OF PROVINCIAL LAW

As far as the Belleville rum running area is concerned there has not only been no clean up under the new minister of customs, but practices are now permitted which were formerly prohibited, according to the following article which is the fourth of a series by two Toronto Star staff men describing the prevailing open sale of liquor at Ontario border points.

The amazing feature of the liquor smuggling situation at the Port of Belleville since Hon. H. H. Stevens became minister of customs is the shipment of beer from Kitchener and Toronto to Belleville over the public highways in direct contravention of the provincial and federal laws.

The facts and the disagreeable nature of them were admitted at the customs deprtment at Belleville.

The element of mystery in the situation deepened at Toronto and the board of license commissioners of the Ontario government positively stated that such shipments could not be legal or authorized by special permit.

Yet there could be no mistake about the facts. The customs department at Belleville was definite. Once before, it was tried under the Liberal government, but stopped at once when what was being done was learned.

But in the past few weeks the liquor trucks have been regularly arriving at Belleville from Toronto with loads of beer for export across the lake to such American ports as Oswego, Watertown and Cape Vincent.

Regarding the beer coming over the highway from Kitchener, we were told that it was from the Kuntz Brewery. "Also a Toronto brewery ships it by truck here."

"Is that perfectly legal on the highways ?"

"I think so, if they have their clearance papers."

"Where do they get their clearance papers ?"

"In Toronto. They have to be sworn to by some special arrangement."

DENIES PERMISSION GRANTED

Yet in Toronto, W. S. Dingman, vice-chairman of the board of license commissioners of the province of Ontario, denied that the board had ever granted permission for these trucks to carry liquor over the provincial highways and the collector of the port of Toronto declared that no clearance papers could be obtained for such loads under any special arrangement in Toronto.

"The use of the highways of the province for the carriage of liquor is contrary to law," said Mr. Dingman. "The Carriage of Liquor Act of 1922, makes such carriage illegal without the board's consent."

Mr. Dingman admitted that the board was in the habit of permitting the trucking of liquor from the distilleries to the railway and from the railway sidings to the docks in some ports where there was no other way of exporting.

"But the board," he said positively, "has never countenanced the carriage of long-haul loads over the highways."

"But such loads are actually being taken to Belleville over the provincial highways at the present time," Mr Dingman was informed.

"I have every reason to believe it is being done," he replied.

"But it is not being done with our authority. Certainly no permission for such procedure is being granted by us."

"How do they get permission then ?"

"They don't get it. They just go and do it."

PLAIN BOOTLEGGING.

"Then it's bootlegging ?"

"It's plain bootlegging," Mr. Dingman replied.

Paternalism in Japan.

The proposed budget for the year for the department of agriculture and commerce of Japan contains some new items for the help of business and industrial men, says the Japan Bulletin. For one thing, the government will nationalize the forests of Hokkaido and manage them for the benefit of various industries which are dependent upon lumber resources. The inauguration of compulsory labor insurance is also planned. Certain industries will be helped by enlarging the government industrial laboratory. The tea industry will be fostered by the creation of a tea laboratory and the establishment of commercial showrooms in important foreign markets.

Beer for the Actors.

Men to whom the matter of beer supply is of importance will more than ever regret the "good old days" when they learn that on play nights at Hampton court, Shakespeare and his fellows were allowed some four and twenty glasses of free beer. One gallon per head daily to the actors, we are told, and extra on the occasion of performances, was the quantity. The adults must really have had even more than this, for, let us remember, the female roles were all played by young boys, who certainly could not ship such seas. Their share must have gone to the seniors.—London Chronicle.

Secrets Lost to World.

The people of Easter island, whatever their remote origin, are now decadent, partly through slavery, partly through migration; a continual exodus and influx of strange peoples, and the consequent mixture of type, have marred what must have been once a fine and gradually civilized race. The conversion of the natives in 1864 to Christianity caused them to abandon all interest in their pagan carvings and writings, so that much of the secret of their former advance is, and must be, lost to the world.—Christian Science Monitor Special Australian Correspondence.

Here and There

Vancouver—All passenger records for outgoing ships to the Orient from the Pacific Coast up to the middle of August were shattered when Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia sailed for Yokohama, August 19, with a passenger list of all classes of 517 in addition to many members of the diplomatic and government services returning after vacations.

Diwan Bahadur Sir T. Vijayaraghavacharya arrived recently from London on Canadian Pacific liner Montcalm at Montreal, en route to Toronto where he will open the National Exhibition at Toronto. The Knight with the lengthy name gets over the difficulty for Canadian lips by stating that it is quite proper to address him as "The Diwan." He may sour other Canadian cities on leaving Toronto.

Banff Springs—"The last time I visited Banff was over 30 years ago and the trip this year has been a most wonderful revelation," said Brigadier-General H. S. Birkett, of Montreal, who stayed at the Banff Springs Hotel on his return from a trip to Alaska. This coincides with the opinion of Morley Roberts, famous English novelist, who after a forty year absence from the West, took part in the last Trail Riders expedition early in August.

Calgary—This city had an exciting moment recently when the Most Honorable the Marquis of Salisbury, leader of the British Conservative party in the House of Lords was made an Indian Chief of the Sarcees and given the name of "Eagle Plume." The ceremony was conducted with all solemnity, His Lordship kneeling on a blanket to receive the honor and being at the same time presented with a handsome beaded buckskin vest and gloves.

Beating the train to the crossing is always a risk in favor of the train but when a motorist halts his car and waits until an engine is almost alongside him before he tries to get over, then the risk becomes an absolute certainty—against the motorist. This was the case recently in Toronto where a car was signalled to stop by the watchman at a crossing, obeyed the signal, and then decided he would still try and get over. Fortunately there were no injuries and the only sufferer was the automobile.

Pictures of Gertrude Ederle's swimming of the English Channel were sent aboard Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Scotland. They travelled across the Dominion from Quebec to Vancouver, stopping en route at Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. They sailed by S.S. Aorangi from Vancouver, August 25 for Sydney, Australia, where they will attend the Association Conference to be held in September and October.

Petrograd Wine Cellars.

The imperial wine cellars underneath the winter palace at Petrograd have been sacked, and nothing remains of what was the largest and finest collection in the world of the best wines of the choicest growth of the most famous years. A great deal had been quietly stolen during the last six months by enterprising patriots, and in the end the soldiers on guard obtained possession of the cellars, and were joined by a huge mob recruited from the dregs of the populace. Tens of thousands of bottles were destroyed, and the floors of the immense cellars were knee-deep in liquor, the end of the orgies being that muddy water from the Neva was pumped into the cellars, after which the mixture of wine and water was pumped back into the river. Thousands of bottles were fired upon to facilitate the destruction. Numbers of the rioters are reported to have been drowned, as they were lying dead drunk on the floors of the cellars in heaps.

Marvelous Feats of Salmon.

Leaving the salt water of the ocean for the fresh-water streams on the Pacific coast the salmon quickly changes color from silver to blood red. In agreement with this metamorphosis the fish also gradually loses the firmness of its flesh. A slow but steady deterioration sets in. When the appointed time has come to move to its selected place, the fish runs in with a big tide that goes far up the chosen stream. And in reaching the desired grounds in fresh water far from the sea, the salmon performs almost unbelievable feats. It will jump small waterfalls, swimming up greater ones to the height of 15 feet. This feat, seemingly contrary to natural laws, the salmon performs. Choosing a point where a fall of the water is heaviest, it rushes up it with all its swimming power.

Would Have Only Pleasant Memory.

"I never," a wife told me, Margaret E. Sangster writes in the Christian Herald, "say an unpleasant thing to my husband when he is leaving for work in the morning. If he's done something inconsiderate that has annoyed me, I forget it. If there is any little worry to confide in him, I keep it for another time. Life, it seems to me, is very involved in the city, very uncertain. There are so many trucks and cars on the street, so many accidents every day that I would hate to think that my husband, in the midst of all the hurry and worry, carried an unpleasant picture of me—a picture that I had created? I would hate to think, if anything did happen, that my face, when he saw it for the last time, had a frown on it. That's why I smile at him always when I say good-by in the morning and let nothing but love shine out of my eyes!"

Uses Chinese Wood Oil.

Tung-yu, or wood oil, is widely used throughout China as a paint oil for outside purposes. As a drying oil it excels even linseed oil. One of its greatest local markets is found among the boatmen, who never paint their boats, but coat them with the cruder grades of wood oil, which not only gives the woodwork a bright, lustrous finish, but also acts as an excellent preservative. When certain mineral substances known as t'utzu and t'o-shen are added to the wood oil and the resulting mass is heated for about two hours, kwang-yu, or wood oil varnish, is produced. This wood oil varnish is used as a waterproofing substance for silks, pongees, etc., and also as an ornamental varnish when coloring materials are added.

Be Careful With Electricity.

Some safety hints for the wise, which are intended to guard against serious accidents and a possible loss of life, are being sent out broadcast by the electric light companies. From them may be selected the following: Do not cover an electric globe with paper or cloth. It may start a fire. Do not hang an ordinary lamp cord over a nail or metal work. Do not leave a cord connected when you are through with it. Do not touch any wire that is down on the ground, whether it is an electric, telephone or guy wire. In an emergency, remove a wire with an instrument equipped with a wooden handle, keeping the full length of the handle between yourself and the wire. —Popular Science Monthly.

Bicycle Remains Unsung.

Coaching has its Nimrod, the turf its Druid, the locomotive, nay, the upstart motor car, has its heroics written in the whirlwind vein of "Tamburlaine the Great," with due accompaniment of gong and cymbals. But the bicycle, in the many years of its popular existence, has found not a single literary champion. It has passed into a busy world unsung. The word "cycle," it has been decided by one school of thought, has proved a deterrent; the "bike" of booking office parlance is more ignominious still. Had it been called a pair-wheel, or a foot-wheel, or, as Poet Barnes suggested, a "wheel saddle," there might have been some hope for it.

Statues for Bee-Hives.

A landowner in Silesia, Germany, has a collection of statues representing Biblical and ecclesiastical characters which he prizes very much. Lifesize figures of Moses, the twelve apostles and ancient dignitaries stand solemnly in a row. But the owner mixes business with his fine art, which the highest art critics say never should be done, and has fixed these figures as homes for the busy bees. There is this record of bees selecting a stranger kind of hive than the solemn figure of Moses or Paul: "And he turned aside to see the carcass of the lion: and, behold, there was a swarm of bees and honey in the carcass of the lion." (Judges 14:8.)—Christian Herald.

Legible Finger Marks.

Theoretically, a finger or thumb that is perfectly clean will leave no mark upon the surface of another perfectly clean skin for a longer time than it takes the natural perspiration of the impressed skin to efface these slight marks. And this is not for many minutes. But as no skin is absolutely clean, the clutch of a hand leaves behind on the skin an imprint in its own accumulations, and on the accumulations on the clutched skin, that can be brought out and deciphered. Of course, the more there is on the hand to leave or on the other skin to receive impressions, the easier is the task of reading the marks.

The Customs Scandal

With the customs investigation still far from finished, the King Government already stands convicted of having co-operated with smugglers, bootleggers, dopesters and thieves, and of having thus been a party to defrauding the National Treasury, strangling legitimate business, debauching officials, high and low, thwarting the administration of justice, and bribing the electorate!

To cite but a few instances--already proven--from its appalling record of malfeasance:

1 Stolen automobiles, smuggled into Canada with the connivance of Customs officials, were sold for a pittance to friends of the King Government, and those found guilty were allowed not only to go unpunished but to continue their nefarious trade.

2 Smuggled liquor selling was engaged in on a large scale by Customs officials whose duty it was to protect the Treasury.

3 Corrupt officials were unpunished and promoted; honest officials were punished and demoted.

4 Prison-made goods are on the prohibited list, yet tons and tons of such goods, produced in prisons where contagious diseases were prevalent among the inmates, were smuggled into Canada for sale to innocent Canadian consumers, with the direct knowledge and co-operation of Government officials.

5 Police officers—members of the incorruptible Royal Canadian Mounted—were withdrawn from the Quebec boundary line at the request of the smuggling ring. Honest traders had asked for increased police protection, but the King Government preferred to grant the request of those who were defrauding the public revenue.

6 Guilty knowledge even in 1923 of the frauds that were being practised has been proven against the King Government beyond the shadow of a doubt. Time and again, in 1924 and 1925, the Commercial Protective Association—an organization of business men—placed before Mr. King irrefutable evidences of it, that they had succeeded in tracing down at their own expense. With his Government hopelessly entangled with Canada's criminal element, Mr. King did not—dared not—take any action to remedy the appalling conditions.

7 A total revenue loss estimated at $35,000,000 per year was the result of the smuggling thus condoned by the King Government.

8 A $54,800 loss was sustained in one case alone when Mr. Cardin, Acting Minister of Customs and Excise, settled for $3,200 with a dishonest importer, who, according to Mr. Cardin's own officials, had cheated the Treasury out of duties amounting to $58,000. This deal was consummated just previous to the last election.

9 Free liquor, from Government warehouses in Montreal, was supplied in generous quantities to members of the King Government and to Government officials in Ottawa, in contravention both of the Federal Law and the Prohibition Law of Ontario.

10 The habit-forming drug traffic is one of the worst curses in the world today. Under the protection of the King Government, Montreal became one of the great dope-distributing centres of North America.

11 The peak of this corruption, and of this interference with the Customs collection and the administration of justice, is proven by the evidence to have been reached just prior to the general election of October, 1925, when, at the written request of Liberal candidates, Ministers of the Crown called off the Royal Canadian Mounted Police because they were enforcing the law, kept convicted crooks out of jail, and sanctioned Treasury frauds as a means of securing the return of the King Government to power.

Despite the fact that with Mr. Kennedy supporting them, the Liberals had a majority on the Investigation Committee, that the Chairman Mr. Mercier was a Liberal, and that the Prosecuting Counsel Mr. Calder was a Liberal candidate in the last election, and despite the further fact that the committee sat almost daily for five months, thus affording Liberal members ample opportunity to uncover malfeasance on the part of previous ministries, not one word of proof, not one breath of suspicion, was brought against the administration of the Customs Department under the Laurier, Borden and Meighen Governments, but only against its administration under Mr. William Lyon MacKenzie King!

Has anything more disgraceful ever besmirched the pages of Canadian history? Can a proud and honourable nation, whose people fear God and eschew evil, afford to condone such dishonesty, such corruption, on the part of its leaders and public servants?

Sydenham Won From Wilton.

The Sydenham girls played the Wilton "Imps" on Wilton diamond on Wednesday afternoon and defeated them by a score of 21-18. Wilton and Sydenham have each won out in their own division and are now playing the finals for the Blacklock trophy. In the first innings Sydenham scored 8 runs, while the "Imps" had one run and it looked as if Sydenham might walk away with the game, but Wilton put Pearl Frink in the pitching box. The "Imps," certainly closed in on the job and the next two innings and prevented Sydenham from scoring any runs, while they themselves scored six. To the spectators the game now looked as if it might end in either side's favor, but Wilton's loose fielding in the seventh innings gave Sydenham seven runs which were hard to make up. Hazel Frink played splendid ball for Wilton, but lacked the proper support. Georgia Phippen, as usual, pitched good ball for Sydenham and her team gave her splendid backing. Several hard catches were made by Alma Barrett on first Home runs were made by Lulu Babcock and Hazel Frink for Wilton and G. Phippen for Sydenham.

WILTON.

The hum of the threshing machine is heard all over the neighborhood these days. Stuart Simmons and Earl Burt threshed for Guy Simmons on Thursday a number of bushels of barley. YARKER.

This section was visited by a heavy downpour of rain last week. Pasture and root crops were in need of it. It ensures a good crop of late potatoes.

A. McPherson is the wizard berry grower. He raised a very large crop of berries this year and next year he expects to double his output.

The Ladies Aid gave up their lawn social owing to the rain. It will not be held now.

A young man, working for John Brown, fell from the mow, breaking his arm.

The employees of the Bank of Montreal, Kingston, played Yarker a game of softball. The game was in favor of Yarker, 25-19.

Ted Winter is added to the list as successful in his entrance examinations.

SOFTBALL

Napanee Leafs, at last in their full stride, are now playing baseball that is of the really spectacular. Twice last week, playing at the Driving Park, for the Lennox Fair, they demonstrated their real abilities, defeating their old league rivals, Belleville Beavers and Deseronto in well played games.

On Tuesday before a large crowd, after the preliminary game between Hayburn and Selby had been decided in favor of the latter, they took on a strongly augmented team of Beavers. Some consistent hitting in the second inning gave Belleville a temporary lead, but the Leafs never let up, and not only passed Belleville in the next inning, but owing to spectacular fielding and good battery work, were never again headed. Each player obtained one or more hits, M. Stinson getting four, including two doubles, and M. Embury, M. Grass, and Margaret Douglas three each.

Beavers.....	0	5	0	0	0	3	2	1	1	—12
Leafs.....	3	0	5	3	4	3	3	0	x	—21

On Friday, the fast working Deseronto Ponies appeared, and with them a great crowd of fans. These two teams always provide a close game. Unfortunately on Friday each team was guilty of one bad inning. The Leafs committed all their errors of the game during the third inning by scoring six runs, but the Leafs finally found their batting eyes in the fifth, and eight clean hits assisted by one walk and two errors gave them the tremendous score of ten runs for the inning. And although the Ponies did their utmost, they never overtook the local girls again. The leading batter of the day was D. Richardson, who collected four hits. When this sterling player leaves town this week she will leave a gap in the team which will be hard to fill.

Deseronto...	0	0	0	6	3	0	3	0	—12
Leafs.....	1	0	1	1	1	0	2	3	x	—18

Those who were unfortunate enough to not be able to visit the Park during the games were missing the writer who the star players were, and unfortunately he was able to give this information. There is not a star player on the Napanee team, it is rather, a team which has no noticeable weakness. All players practically always catch faultlessly, and their throwing to the infield is really remarkable for accuracy. Lena Embury, Marian Douglas and D. Richardson could catch a place with any team in the province, and the quicklike pivot with which the infield, composed of Margaret Douglas, Marion Embury, Mary Stinson, and Hazel Embury work, is of less noteworthy. And it will be a constant marvel to the fans how little Dorothy Johnston, who has done the lion's share of the pitching all summer, has developed such speed and accuracy for instance during the week in the two games played she walked only three batters and allowed only seven hits. She is very ably supported behind the plate by Marion Grass, who as a catcher has few equals in the league. They are now a real ball team. They have moreover, in Irene Embury and Mary Bates, two splendid substitutes, who have when called on, filled any position on the team where they were needed, and no matter where they are put they always turn in a good game. Both are fine batters. Miss Embury hitting .444 and Miss Bates .370, and both have when needed, gone in as pinch hitters and delivered hits. There is something unusual in baseball—a pinch hitter who can hit. On Friday, the Selby team, being shorthanded, Miss Bates pitched and Miss Embury played at third base and caught, and with good support the battery would have won that game too.

STOCK JUDGING.

Twenty young men took part in the stock judging contest at the Fair on Wednesday. It was interesting to watch them at their work. The silver cup donated by Dr. Stratton, Napanee, was awarded to the team from Camden East, comprising H. M. and M. Jackson, and E. Drew. Richmond team was second and South Fredericksburgh third. The highest individual scores were made in this order : H. M. Jackson, Enterprise ; E. Drew, Moscow ; Alfred Wood, Newburgh ; M. Jackson, Enterprise and W. Frisken, Selby.

The winners in stock judging were : Horses, Alfred Price, Newburgh ; beef cattle, H. Young, Sillsville ; dairy cattle, A. Woodcock, Napanee ; sheep, H. M. Jackson, Enterprise ; sheep, E. Drew, Moscow.

DAIRY TEST.

A feature of the fair which attracted a great deal of attention was the dairy test, which began at noon on Wednesday and concluded at noon on Friday. The officers in charge were H. B. Sandwith, of the Kingston Dairy School and J. E. Brennan, instructor in cheese factories, Deseronto, and the results were as follows :

Pure bred class—Matured cows, first, W. Cranston, Sillsville ; second and third, R. Merritt, Sillsville. Two-year-olds, first, W. Cranston ; second, R. Merritt.

Grade Class—Matured cows, first, W. Cranston ; second and third, M. Grooms, Napanee. Two year-olds, M. Grooms.

THE STAR 4-CYLINDER CARS.

Card's Garage had a particularly fine exhibit of this well-known and popular make of cars, in the automobile tent. Owing to limited space it was only possible to show a few. Those on exhibition were the Sedan, price $1165 ; Coupe, $1020 ; Touring, $800. They are all beautiful specimens and perfect in manufacture, are well upholstered, easy-riding, and present a fine appearance. They will give long service ; one of the most powerful cars on the market. Mr. Thompson, at Card's Garage, will be glad to demonstrate these cars at any time.

JAS. MACGILLIVRAY

The display of Linoleum and Congoleum Rugs and rolls of these useful and attractive floor coverings in the booth of Jas. MacGillivray, better known to his many friends as "Mac," was a distinct artistic achievement, and drew many admiring glances and expressions of approval from the large number of visitors to the Fair who passed through the Palace. The Linoleums and Congoleums are manufactured in Canada and are so well known as to need no comment here on their sterling qualities for wear and appearance, but anyone who wants further information, on application to Mac, will be furnished with pamphlets telling all about them.

"Mac" is the proprietor of the Housefurnishing business on the second floor of MacGregor's Department Store, where will be found a full stock of the above mentioned goods, as well as oilcloths, carpets, and rugs of all kinds; also upholstering materials, curtains, mats, etc., etc. In addition to the foregoing lines you will find in his warerooms a full stock of crockery, dinner and tea sets, general tablewares, and glassware. He extends an invitation to view his goods to all who are interested in extra good quality and good value in the lines he carries.

JOHN MCKAY, LIMITED.

In a beautifully arranged booth, under an illuminated sign of their registered trade-mark, "From Trapper to Wearer," this old and reliable firm had on display a splendid showing of the most attractive specimens of fine fur skins and furs made in Hudson Seal, Persian Lamb, Silver Raccoon and Muskrat, and many other varieties. These were also in evidence tempting chokers and stoles in all the fashionable and popular furs.

The walls were decorated with Alaska Seal, Hudson Seal, Kolinsky, Martins, Mink, Fisher, and Foxes, in natural colors, from Labrador Reds to fine Canadian Silvers.

This well-known firm have been established for nearly three-quarters of a century and can be depended upon to serve their customers with Furs and Fur Coats exactly as represented. They buy their furs directly from the trappers and make them up in their own work rooms in Kingston. They invite correspondence, and will gladly send catalogue and all information required. If you are interested write to John McKay, Limited, The Fur House, Kingston, Ont.

PAUL'S BOOK STORE.

The well displayed and most attractive exhibit of this enterprising firm drew the attention of visitors to the palace and elicited praise for its generally tasteful appearance. Many fine samples of latest designs in Wall Paper were in evidence, as well as all the other items in the shape of books, stationery, pictures and so forth. The booth was in charge of Grant L. Paul, who is so popular with the young people of the town, as he devotes a large amount of his time in connection with their sports. But for his efforts, girls' softball, basketball, baseball and other pastimes would here would not have achieved their enviable standing. In his stock will be found all the latest in school supplies and school supplies, and he invites the patronage of all his friends.

WILLYS OVERLAND CARS.

Willys Knight and Overland display of Automobiles by the local dealer, R. H. Hall, drew great comment from all those who viewed the exhibit. The new European Light Type car, "The Whippet," which surpasses all other light models, was the centre of attraction to all of those coming in the Automobile tent. This car was shown in two models, the Coach, priced at $1,065, fully equipped, and a sloppy touring, priced at $865, fully equipped. The Overland Six was shown in a four door Sedan, and drew praise and comment from all ; it was priced at $1,725 with all equipment and is a splendid purchase in its price class. The Willys-Knight was shown in two models. The Intermediate Six, priced $2,300, drew a large crowd at all times, and the Great Six Willys-Knight was by far the centre of attraction. This car is priced at $3585, fully equipped. These two cars have the famous sleeve valve motor, the only motor known today that improves with use ; no carbon to clean, no valves to grind. Before purchasing, see these models. Mr. Paul deserves all credit on his exhibit. His showing in price from $895.00 to $3,600.00 proves to the buying public that he has an automobile to fit the pocket of any purchaser.

MCLAUGHLIN-BUICK.

Robt. MacFarland, the local dealer, representing the McLaughlin Motor Car Co., Ltd., had a wonderful display of closed models. The new 4-door Pontiac was shown for the first time in Napanee, and drew praise and comment from all people. The Oldsmobile was shown in Coach and Sedan models, very beautiful upholstering and nice streamline bodies painted in tasty colors, and well praised by all who visited the tent.

The famous McLaughlin Buick was shown in seven different models. The five-passenger sedan, finished in a blue-black color, elaborate in its upholstering, drew large crowds. The Coach, finished in a Robin-egg blue, was inspected by all visitors. Its sliding, adjustable seats drew great praise.

The centre of attraction centralized around the four-passenger Coupe and Country Club Coupe. Both of these models showed snappiness in all their lines.

Mr. MacFarland was kept very busy demonstrating these two models, one being sold on the first day of the Fair.

This display of Pontiacs, Oldsmobiles and McLaughlins, was a credit to Mr. MacFarland, and he deserves very much credit for his showing and sales.

DESERONTO.

Mrs. E. Robinson has gone to Toronto for an extended visit with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Gaulin and her daughter, Mrs. Felix Genereaux, of Point Anne, have gone to Rochester to visit Mrs. Gaulin's daughter, Mrs. Eli Houlle.

Miss Cora Mason and her mother have returned home after spending a week in Watertown, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sharpe have returned home after a tour through the Adirondacks.

The camping grounds on Main street are attracting numerous tourists.

The Town Council is having signs erected at both ends of the town telling the different things Deseronto has to offer in the way scenery and factory sites.

Mr. Bruce Campbell has motored to Toronto for the Exhibition.

Mrs. Jas. Coutu, of Toronto, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Burns.

Mrs. Fred Coones, and daughter, Helen, have returned to their home in Toronto, after a visit with Mrs. Connes' father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Dunlop.

Miss Ada Henderson, Belleville, is the guest of Miss Valera Henderson, Thomas street.

The canning factory is expected to begin the canning of a good crop of tomatoes this week. The corn crop for canning purposes is not looked upon as being as good as usual in this section.

MOSCOW.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Lucas have returned from Gary, Ind., where they attended the funeral of the latter's brother, J. Walter Denyes. Injuries received in an accident, when a truck fell on him as he was endeavoring to place it on the road, resulted in the death of Mr. Denyes. The accident happened about sixty miles south-east of Gary, where a truck of the Gary Baking Company had left the road. Mr. Denyes was chief mechanic of the baking company and he was summoned to pull one of the company's trucks out of the ditch. In attempting to bring the truck back onto the road, Mr. Denyes was pinned beneath it when it toppled over on him again after it had been uprighted. His leg was broken, back was wrenched, ribs crushed and he suffered internal injuries. The deceased was born at Odessa on Oct. 30th, 1882, the eldest son of the late Harvey Denyes, and spent some years with the firm of Macnee and Minnes, Kingston, going from these to Rochester, N.Y., then to Gary, Ind. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Georgie Reed, Rochester, N.Y.; his mother, Mrs. Harvey Denyes, Moscow, and one sister, Mrs. George S. Lucas, Moscow.

Picton Fair—Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday—September 7, 8, 9. It's going to be a great Fair ! It's going to be a Fair that everybody will enjoy attending. We advise all the people to take in this, the Model County Fair of the Dominion, for they will certainly enjoy every part of this Fair. 39-b

You Are Richer To-Day

Because of Liberal Policies

Meighen can't Win! If you want Stable Government give King a Working Majority.

CONSIDER these outstanding financial reforms, inaugurated by the Liberals, which :

(1) Give you Cheaper Automobiles.

(2) Give you Cheaper Agricultural Implements.

(3) Abolishes Income Tax for one-third who paid it.

(4) Reduces tax on all incomes.

(5) Extends the British Preference.

(6) Abolishes Receipt Tax.

(7) Abolishes the Sales Tax on 236 groups of articles.

(8) And gives you Penny Postage again.

These benefits are not fancied—they are real. The country feels them, the home and the individual feel them, and business has responded wonderfully.

NOTE WELL—every Conservative in the House of Commons voted against these reductions in taxation.

MAGNIFICENT ACHIEVEMENT

To-day our favorable trade balance has reached the enormous total of more than $400,000,000. Our factories are busy. Many are building additions and working overtime.

We are exporting $15,567,234 more manufactured goods than we are importing. Our railways are piling up new records. In 1921 the Canadian National Railways had an operating deficit of $11,000,000. In 1925 it was changed to a surplus of $32,000-000. Our taxes have been reduced by $25,000,000. Government expenditure has been lowered, effecting a saving of $108,341,766 in 1925 as compared with the last year under Meighen. Our budget has been balanced. Our dollar is worth a dollar, and sometimes more, in all parts of the world. Our public debt is being reduced. There is but little unemployment. Agriculture is prosperous. Our people are happier than ever before in Canada's history.

A GOVERNMENT FOR THE PEOPLE

The Liberal Budget of this year was accepted by the great mass of the electors as a Budget designed to benefit the average Canadian.

Hon. Mr. Robb, the Liberal Minister of Finance, has promised still further reductions in taxation if the Liberals are returned to office.

The record of the King Government shines with achievements that should lead every right thinking man and woman to vote Liberal on Election Day, September 14th.

Grand Old Man of Army

Each year the King of England pays a visit to the town of Marlow-on-the-Thames, a visit arranged expressly that he might speak to the man who has seen five generations of Kings occupy the throne of England. He is Gen. Sir George Wentworth Alexander Higginson, "Father of the Guards" and the oldest general in the service of the King, who on June 21 last observed the 160th anniversary of his birth and the eighty-first of his service in his Majesty's forces. For more than thirty years he was an officer of the Grenadier Guards, receiving his first commission from the "Iron Duke" of Wellington, in 1845 he rose to the command of the Brigade of Guards, and was later made a full general. For many years he has been on the retired list, but when the terror of the World War was upon England he returned to serve in any unofficial capacity his years would permit.

Gen. Higginson was born June 21, 1826, the eldest son of Gen. George Higginson and Frances Higginson, daughter of the first Earl of Kilmorey. He was educated at Eton, and at the age of nineteen received his first commission in the Grenadier Guards, one of the most famous of England's "crack" regiments. He fought with his regiment through the Crimean campaign, through the bloody days with the French, Sardinian and Turkish troops that finally resulted in capitulation by the Russian forces. He was wounded in action several times and was twice promoted on the field for exceptional gallantry. He is a Knight of the Legion of Honor, a Knight of the Grand Cross of the Crown of Italy and has been awarded the Crimean medal with four clasps. He married, in 1858, Florence, daughter of the first Baron Castledown of Upper Ussary. The wedding was blessed by two girls, one of whom is alive. His one hundred birthday found Gen. Higginson still possessed of a remarkable virility. He exercises several hours every day, walking around his estate or strolling along the river bank half a mile away. He is up at seven o'clock each day, eats a hearty breakfast of fruit and ham and eggs, reads the newspapers and attends to his correspondence until noon.

He has no use for secretaries, stenographers, typewriters or any of the modern business aids. He answers all of his letters himself, and his handwriting is as firm and legible as that of a man half his age. Before and after luncheon he exercises or pays a few local calls and in the evening he either reads a novel, listens-in on the radio, or plays the piano. He sleeps normally, and eats three hearty meals a day. Although now a bit bent beneath the weight of his years Sir George in his younger days was a man of great physical strength and physique. He is the original of the mounted officer in Lady Butler's famous painting of the battle of Inkerman, "The Roll Call." His regiment, the Grenadier Guards, is one that has for more than 260 years been one of England's finest bodies of men. Only men of unusual stature are admitted, and the honor of commanding it is much coveted among the officers of the army. It was formed in 1660 around the nucleus of a regiment of English Royalists which followed Charles II. into exile, and is the only grandier regiment in the British Army. Sir George attends all of the functions of the Grenadiers, and during the war was extremely busy as many plans were being made for receptions for other social events.

Gen. Higginson's mind is still facile and his conversation contains a sprightliness enlivened by a wealth of nineteenth century anecdote. He clearly remembers the Iron Duke of Wellington; he remembers when the old Houses of Parliament burned to the ground in 1845, three years before Queen Victoria came to the throne, and when he was a boy he dined with the famous Duke Wellington who led a detachment against the Gordon rioters in 1830. His impressions of the changing days in which he has lived are gathered together in an autobiography "Seventy-one Years of a Guardsman's Life," published in 1916, and the faithful picture he gives of the historical events and social changes of those three score and eleven years makes it a valuable document to historians and students. His intimate acquaintance with the picturesque personalities of his age gives an individual flavor to his writing rivalled by few books of an autobiographical nature.

His forefathers for generations have served in the royal forces, and their beautiful estate at Ashley on the Thames is one of the most interesting spots in England, rendered still more interesting by the century old general who resides there. The townspeople of Marlow, as an expression of appreciation, have named their park after him, and Higginson Park will be a civic record through the ages of the man. At the naming of the new park Princess Mary presided. On the occasion of his 160th birthday he was visited by the King and Queen of England, and the celebration was attended by a host of relatives, dignitaries, famous people, ladies and present Guards' officers. The general was affable as ever, and the high regard of his guests was increased by this evidence of a man who could reach the count of 100 and still retain the naturalness and intelligence of his youth. Morning and evening every Sunday of the year he walks to church, and this regular attendance and deep interest in all the affairs of his church have characterized his entire life. He is devoutly religious, and his support is behind every good movement that starts in the town or the parish.

A Kitchen Oculist.

Joe: "My brother is a kitchen oculist."

Jerry: "What does he do?"

"Takes the eyes out of potatoes."

Small House.

"The Doll's House," South Audley street, London, England, which has been acquired by a member of a well-known New York family, is the smallest house in Mayfair, but not smallest in London. This distinction belongs to No. 10 Hyde Park place, one of a row of houses on the Bayswater side overlooking the park, built over a passage six feet wide, between Nos. 9 and 11. Although it has a street door guarded by an iron gate, there is only one room in the house. This architectural oddity was built about fifty years ago by an old lady named Jupp, who lived at No. 9, for occupation by one of her servants. She had a number placed on the street door, and so endowed it with a separate existence as a house.

Magnets.

Although there is such a thing as a natural magnet most of those in use are artificial. There are two general methods for making artificial magnets. The first is to take a bar or a needle of magnetic substance, iron or steel, wrap an insulated wire around it like a thread on a spool, and pass a strong electric current through the wire. The other method is to take as before a bar or needle of a magnetic substance and place it near a magnet. The intensity of the magnetization in both cases is increased by hammering the bar while the process of magnetizing is going on. A piece of steel magnetized in this way remains so for a long time, while a piece of iron soon loses its magnetization.

THIS WOMAN NOW WELL

Her Suffering Relieved and Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ontario.—"I am certainly very grateful for the benefit I have received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, also the Sanative Wash and the Liver Pills. In the early spring I was suffering so much from loss of blood that I thought I would never be any better as doctor's medicine relieved me only for the time being. I saw the Vegetable Compound advertised in the 'Toronto Star,' and I find the Vegetable Compound Tablets the best for me. I have been taking them since Spring, and I intend keeping them by me all the time. After reading your Private Text-Book I saw it was necessary to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and I can safely say I feel a different woman. My friends remark how well I look. I am a very busy woman, but I am ready at all times to boost your medicines."—Mrs. Charles Griffin, 940 Lansdowne Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

You may be having an experience similar to Mrs. Giffin's and will be interested to know what she did. Every sick woman can feel confident that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help her. Records are on hand to show that 98 out of every 100 women who take it.

Wood Oil in Commerce.

Wood oil has many uses. It is used as an illuminant, an ingredient in concrete, an adulterant in the manufacture of lacquer varnish, and when mixed with lime and bamboo shavings it is used by the Chinese in caulking their boats. Chinese or Indian ink is made from the soot resulting from the burning of the oil of the fruit husks. The product is also used as a dressing for leather, in the manufacture of soap, and as a varnish for fine furniture. In foreign countries wood oil is chiefly used for the manufacture of varnish from cheap gums. Other oils require a higher and more expensive quality of gum in order that the resulting varnish be of equal grade. This feature, together with the rapidity with which wood oil varnish dries, has created the demand for the product to increase steadily.

Big Tithes for Bishop.

A champion pluralist was Bishop Luxmore of St. Asaph. To his own use he contrived to impound the tithes of some two dozen parishes, which gave him an annual income of nearly £20,000. A staunch believer was the worthy bishop in the maxim that blood is thicker than water. For his eldest son, whom he made dean of St. Asaph, he obtained other ecclesiastical appointments which brought him in over $8,000 yearly. A second son had preferments to the tune of a mere $2,000, while a nephew had to be content with a beggarly pittance of $1,400. It was reckoned that the four Luxmores who flourished in the early years of last century, drew from their manifold appointments the sum of about $125,000 yearly.—London Times.

Moslem Polygamy.

The only passage in the Koran that refers to the subjects of polygamy is the third verse of the fourth Sutra. It reads: "And if ye are apprehensive that ye shall not deal fairly with orphans, then of other women who seem good in your eyes marry but two, or three, or four; and if ye still fear that ye shall not act equitably, then one only; or the slaves whom ye have acquired; this will make justice on your part easier." Before the time of Mahomet the Arabians were allowed to marry as many wives as they pleased, this passage, instead of being an encouragement of polygamy, must be interpreted rather as a diplomatic recommendation of monogamy on account of the difficulty of realizing the conditions involved with the privilege.

Postal Service Development.

As late as the fifteenth century butchers or drovers who went about buying cattle were the principal carriers of private correspondence. In the twelfth century the University of Paris established a body of pedestrian messengers, who bore letters from its thousands of students to the various countries of Europe from which they came and brought to them the money they needed for the prosecution of their studies. The great development of commerce following the crusades and the geographical discoveries of the Italians, Portuguese and Spaniards created a necessity for business correspondence about the beginning of the sixteenth century.

Sprat.

As long ago as Elizabeth's time "sprat" was used as a term of contempt and as an article of diet it has always been deemed but humble fare, with which, however, good economists are very well content today, remarks the London Chronicle. But though despised in its adult state, it is in its infancy that highly esteemed delicacy, whitebait. We were a long time, however, in recognizing the fact, for naturalists disputed among themselves whether the honor should be accorded to the fry of shad, pilchards or herring and only lately did they decide that it belonged to the herring and sprat.

Hieroglyphics Deciphered.

The hieroglyphic writings on Easter island, perhaps its salient and most remarkable feature, have been executed on tablets of wood. They appear to have been two kinds of script, as in other cases of ancient writings; a sacred and a common. Quite recently a native was discovered who could decipher the latter. In the Caroline islands, Ohatahan islands, and even among the Battas and Inner Sumatras, a rude approach to such writings, and consequent proof of former civilization, have been found.

AS MOTHER SEES THEM

MEMORIES OF TINY TODDLERS WHO BECAME FAMOUS.

Charming Stories of Celebrities, as Told By Their Mothers — What Mary Pickford Did With Her First Big Salary.

Every mother is an important individual. But some mothers acquire an added dignity and importance when the little boys and girls they have cared for and trained, and even lectured at times, grow up to be famous young men and women. Remember, the celebrated star whom we regard with awe and envy is just "my little boy" or "my little girl" to some proud mother.

One of the most interesting mothers of to-day is the kind, clever woman who became the talker, Mary Pickford, through countless struggles to ultimate success.

Among Mrs. Pickford's memories is one of a tired eight-year-old girl, lying asleep on a theatrical basket in a dingy dressing-room, her make-up all streaked with the bitter tears that shed at the misery of her own (theatrical) death-scene). She also remembers how, as a small child, Mary used to be kept awake by the noise of waltz home from the theatre at night—and that the only way to do it was through a hurriedly invented game of "counting the cracks in the pavement."

Yet another memory of the famous Mary is her mother's story of the first time the budding celebrity asserted herself in the theatre, stamping a tantrum foot as she cried:

"I'm the star! I'm the star—and I hate this horrid dressing-room! Give me another at once!"

"Don't be absurd, Mary," said her mother. "Why, you're just a naughty little girl!"

Of Mary's first big contract Mrs. Pickford still speaks with tears in her eyes. Having signed a contract by which she was to receive one thousand dollars a week, little Mary went to the bank with an advance cheque for the first week's money, and asked for it all in dollar notes. Stuffing the notes in a canvas bag, she ran home through the pouring rain and emptied the sack at her mother's feet.

"And I stammered, 'Mary, is it a joke?'" says Mrs. Pickford. "I could scarcely see it; those bills seemed to fill the whole room.

"But Mary whispered, 'It's true, mother,' and we both hugged each other and wept for joy."

Always known as "Peg" to her clever daughters, the mother of Norma and Constance Talmadge tells many good stories about the girls in their childhood days. Twinkling with laughter, "Peg" relates the way Norma became the victim of unrequited love.

Fifteen-year-old Norma was working in one of the film offices out West, acting, dancing, and spent her time between scenes in poring over Latin grammars and arithmetical problems.

One day when she had been playing a negress in a film, she arrived home with her black make-up on and tried to take it off in the bath-room. This was hopeless, of course, for the black ran into weird-looking streaks. While she was busily splashing away her mother came to say a caller had arrived, a boy from High School on whom Miss Norma had set her youthful heart.

That was enough for Norma! Without waiting to look in the mirror, she rushed downstairs and greeted her ardent admirer just as usual. But his manner was odd. He looked away, stammered, fidgeted, and at last made a nervous exit.

"What that boy thought," laughs Mrs. Talmadge, "we shall never know! For we never saw him again!"

For Norwolfo, there is nobody in the world like his mother, Madame Clara Novello Davies, the well-known teacher of singing.

"All that life he called me 'Mam,'" says Madame Davies, "and we are the greatest friends. Why, all the time I was in America we never let a day pass without sending a cable to each other.

"He was quite a tiny child when he went to the pantomime at Cardiff, and fell in love with the fairy queen: wings, wand, and everything! She has his voice, and used to come to my house for singing lessons.

"One day, while she was singing, dressed in a neat tailor-made coat and skirt, I saw the door open and Ivor's dark head came round it cautiously. Creeping in, he stole across the room and stood looking at his 'Fairy Queen' in silence. Then he put out his hand, touched her dress, and ran away.

"Afterwards I found him very upset, almost in tears; and all I got out of him was: 'I didn't know she was real, mam. I didn't know she was real!' Poor child, he expected to see her wearing wings at twelve o'clock in the morning!"

Mrs. Arthur Thatcher is Heather Thatcher's mother and inseparable companion.

"As a little girl Heather loved dolls and sewing," Mrs. Thatcher says. "She was very obedient, and I remember sending her to the post one day with a reply to some friends who had asked us to spend the evening with them. When we were at Shebbear's house the next evening our host said to my husband: 'I'm coming down on you about that postcard. It wasn't stamped!'

"When we got home I asked Heather what she had done about the stamp. 'Oh, mummie,' she said, 'I bought it safely, as you said, but I dropped the card in the box without sticking on the stamp! So then I just dropped the stamp in afterwards, all by itself, to make sure it would be all right! Wasn't that clever of me?'"

Place Work Above Riches.

There is a story told of a multimillionaire who was offered $60,000,000 for his holdings in the business in which he had been interested for many years. He went home that night and consulted his wife, who had been his good comrade in all of his business adventures, and she said: "Don't you sell! What would I do with the money, and what would you do without your work?" And the multimillionaire didn't sell. This is just an illustration that goes to show that money can have only a certain value, and that value is not comparable with the value of work.—Exchange.

BLACKPOOL'S JUBILEE.

Note for Its Bracing Air and Golden Sands.

Blackpool, England, recently celebrated its jubilee.

Fifty years ago, Blackpool was quite a small place. It had sand, sea, and amazingly bracing air, but that was about all until, in 1876, it received a Charter of Incorporation and took a boroughly step. Since then it has never looked back. It is now one of the most famous pleasure resorts in the world.

It would be far easier to mention what Blackpool lacks than what it possesses. There are certainly no more refreshing sea breezes to be found anywhere on Britain's coasts than can be breathed at this Lancashire resort, and there is no sort of joy-round or pleasure-track that the town has not got.

The pleasure fair at the end of the south shore is a wonder in itself. Its superior cannot be found anywhere. The glorious dancing-halls, winter gardens, palaces, cinemas, promenades, and other attractions of the town are all of the very highest type.

Indeed, it strikes the visitor from London or the United States with amazement to find that this Lancashire resort parades on its sea-front, and is making another two miles, thus far eclipsing even its own astonishing record. Moreover, in several places these promenades are duplicated, or even triplicated, while in one or two spots they are actually quadruplicated. That alone would make this town unique.

Somebody once said that it was impossible to feel in the dumps at Blackpool, impossible to go about with a long or serious face, impossible to "enjoy" bad health or bad temper. It is not an exaggeration. For who ever goes to Blackpool—whether it be for a day, a week, or a fortnight—seems to give himself or herself entirely over to jollity, pleasure, and happiness.

There are miles of sands, parks, and a zoo for the children; play-dances, and cinemas for older folk at night, with every kind of amusement and excursion in the day-time. Plus streets of good shops abound, and there is the sea and air so bracing that it will cure almost any ill. What more could any holiday-maker want?

Fascination of the Sea.

To those who live on the coast or near enough to visit it frequently, no words need be said in praise of the mighty ocean. Unlike the mountains, the prairie and the forest, the sea never grows monotonous. It is "a mere expanse of water," if you will, but it is such a varied expanse that one never grows weary of looking at it. It is this fascination that binds a sailor to his profession. His work is hard, the perils are many, and the pay and food are alike poor, but once a sailor he can never willingly be content to live inland. Even in his old age and crippled, he loves to haunt the seashore and gaze on the element he once lived upon.

Little-Known Philippine Industry.

People usually connect the Philippine islands with perfumes and tropical fruits, and very little is heard of the great industry of hemp-weaving of fabrics from pineapples and bananas. The lining of the skins is used, and the looms not unlike those familiar to us are employed. The finest material is made from pineapples, and called pina cloth. It is very soft and close in texture, somewhat resembling mull-muslin, and is the color of champagne. It is not as a rule dyed, and is beautifully embroidered.

Ancients Valued Salt Highly.

It is not astonishing that the possession of salt mines or salt deposits was the cause of many disputes and even wars among nations, and Tacitus relates that the Hermunduri waged bloody war with the Chatti for forty years for the possession of salt springs which were situated on the banks of the River Saale in Frankis, and in the neighboring forests, believing that such localities were closer to heaven and that the prayers of the mortals, in these places, were particularly apt to be heard.—Medicine and Surgery.

Wood's Lasting Qualities.

Wood is almost an imperishable substance and if kept from attacks of organisms, both animal and vegetable, will practically last forever. The heart wood in living trees is as thoroughly lifeless as the average fence post or timber lying in a lumber yard, but is usually protected by the outward bark. When insects and disease find entrance through holes or cracks a hollow tree usually results and the decay or destruction is as rapid as though not inside living bark.

Prehistoric Skull Borings.

The operation called "trephining," by which a button of skull is removed, is regarded in these modern days as very hazardous, and to be attempted only as a last resort. But the ancient Peruvians, centuries before Columbus landed, practiced it very commonly. Of 1,000 of their skulls, recently obtained by the United States bureau of ethnology from prehistoric caves and cemeteries, nearly 2 per cent had been trephined for some cause.

BADGES FOR KNIGHTS.

They Are Again Wearing Sword and Spurs—But on a Medallion Only.

If you meet a knight at any public function you will no longer have any excuse for thinking him just a plain "Mr." From now onwards the knight bachelor has been granted the right to wear a badge, the design of which has been approved by the King, which will leave no room for doubt as to his status.

The distinctive ornaments and equipment of the medieval knight form the basis of the new badge. These are the sword, the spurs, and the belt. In the badge they appear on an oval medallion, enclosed by a scroll. The design is in silver gilt, on a background of vermilion enamel.

Until this badge was granted there was nothing to distinguish the knight from lesser men. While he took precedence of the companions and commanders of the various orders of chivalry they had their decorations to wear on ceremonial occasions, while he had nothing. Yet knighthood is now just as much a reward of merit as membership of any order.

In this respect we have returned to mediaeval tradition. In the days of the Hundred Years War, no matter how nobly born, or how wealthy a young man might be, he had to "win his spurs" by some deed of daring before he became a knight. Knighthood, too, could be won by men who had neither money nor family influence, and some of the great commanders of the Middle Ages were men who rose from the ranks. The golden spurs of knighthood were thus no empty ostentation—they were a sort of certificate that the men who wore them had proved their worth.

The new badges, which are to be about three inches in length and two inches wide, will, it is understood, be struck at the Royal Mint. Over 3,000 of them will be required, as there are now more than that number of knights bachelor. In the early eighties of last century there were less than five hundred.

THE WIND'S WAY.

Moving Air Can Wreck Bridges and Toss Tramcars About.

Recently there was an extraordinary storm at Salisbury, in Western Australia. The wind was so furious that a number of stout iron telegraph posts were bent over until the crossbars at the top actually touched the ground.

The highest force of wind ever measured was in a typhoon at Hong Kong, when the record showed 185 miles an hour. Britain's worst was in the storm that wrecked the great Tay Bridge, when it blew at the rate of two and a half miles a minute. But in the centre of a tornado, one of those local circular storms not uncommon in North America, the wind force is far greater.

At Louisville a tramcar was picked out of the street, lifted forty feet, and deposited on the roof of a house. At Norman, in Oklahoma, an iron shovel was blown against a tree with such force that the blade was found half buried in the solid timber. At Minnesota a horse was lifted bodily into the air and hurled down upon a broken tree with such frightful force that the stem of the tree was driven right through the animal's body.

We get big winds in Britain. One night in 1930 the express leaving Aberdeen for London met such a furious gale off the North Sea that it took two hours to cover four miles. Several times the guards brought the train to a complete stop. In the same storm a motor-car trying to force its way against the gale was not only stopped, but driven backwards into a ditch.

In December, 1923, a whirlwind struck Warwickshire and did dreadful damage between Solihull and Elmdon. Among other things it swept away a poultry-house with 200 fowls in it. Of these only a dozen were recovered. The rest had absolutely vanished.

Stand That Saved the World.

A memorial to the officers and men of the extreme right wing of the British Second Corps, who fell at the first battle of Le Cateau, has just been unveiled.

The men whose deeds are commemorated by this cenotaph were apparently "all in" when they staggered into Le Cateau on the evening of August 25th, 1914. But on the following day they held the enemy at bay during nine hours of continuous attack, upset the German plan of campaign, and saved Paris and the British Expeditionary Force. But for them the end of the war might have been very different.

It was a magnificent stand against overwhelming odds, and ranks high in the records of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, the Suffolk Regiment, the Manchester Regiment, and the Royal Artillery, who all took part in it. Men fought the Germans with clubbed rifles when their bayonets broke, and then, when their rifles were smashed, with their bare fists.

Spotless Ancestry.

Here is an amusing tale about the Prince of Wales. When he was little, his grandfather—King Edward—came upon him studying industriously, and asked what he was reading.

"All about Perkin Warbeck," replied the prince.

"And who was Warbeck?" asked King Edward.

"He was a pretender," came the answer. "He pretended he was the son of a king. But he wasn't. He was the son of respectable parents."

Horse a Curious Feeder.

"Dad, why is a horse the most curious feeder in the world?"

"Don't know. Why is it?"

"He eats best when he has not a 'bit' in his mouth!"

Mistakes.

Wife: "Because of the way you spoke to her on the telephone yesterday the maid has given notice."

Husband: "Great Scott! I thought I was talking to you!"—London Mail.

How Sugar Became a Necessity.

Man's enormous need for sugar is the result of the evolution of his digestive system. Our remote ancestors in the European forests of the ice age were able to digest cellulose and get the sugar out of it, as a goat or a camel does now. The organ which did this work was the vermiform appendix. Later, man began to get enough sugar by converting the starch in grains and fruits. Then he discovered the process of cooking, which makes this conversion of starches into sugar much easier, and even in some cases performs the conversion. When sugar was discovered, it was at first regarded as a curiosity, then served as a luxury, and finally became the necessity which it now is, as men's stomachs became accustomed to its use. It is, then, a partially digested food, and a highly concentrated form of energy. The sugar-eating man has survived because he took a great burden off his digestive tract and thereby had more energy for other work. Hence man has become a confirmed sugar eater.

General Custer's War Horses.

Frog Town was one of General Custer's war horses. He was the finest specimen of the thoroughbred I ever saw, standing 16 hands, well balanced and of excellent proportions, writes a correspondent of the Washington Post. In motion he was superb, a perfect model for the sculptor's art. The favorite war horse of General Custer on the plains was a brown horse called Dandy. He was 15½ hands, a compact, muscular horse, fine head and neck. He marched in the ranks of Custer's little army of daring troopers on June 25, 1876, against the confederated Sioux tribes, that terrible day of the massacre of Custer and his men, in the Valley of Little Big Horn, and was shot through the shoulder. He lived, however, to return to Fort Lincoln, whence, after a partial recovery, he was sent to General Custer's father at Monroe, Mich.

The Dew.

Dew is merely aqueous vapor which has condensed on bodies during the night in the form of minute globules. It is occasioned by the chilling which bodies near the surface of the earth experience in consequence of nocturnal radiation. Their temperature then having fallen several degrees below the temperature of the air, it frequently happens, especially in hot seasons, that this temperature is below that at which the atmosphere is saturated. The layer of air which is immediately in contact with the chilled bodies, then deposits a portion of the vapor which it contains; just as when a bottle of cold water is brought into a warm room, it becomes covered with moisture, owing to the condensation of aqueous vapor upon it.

HOW TO KILL WEEDS

CHEMICALS VERY EFFECTIVE FOR THIS PURPOSE.

Common Salt and More Expensive Chemicals May Be Used But You Should Understand Proper Conditions—How Chemicals Act.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

During the early summer frequent requests reach this office asking for ways and means of killing obnoxious plants without applying the general methods of soil tillage. Poisoning, poison oak, poison sumac, and poison hemlock are the most frequently mentioned plants.

The usefulness of chemicals as weed killers is limited to the following cases:—

1. When the obnoxious weed occurs in limited areas and is to be destroyed, regardless of the effect of the chemical on the soil or nearby plants.

2. When it is desired to render the soil sterile, as on tennis courts, paths, roadways or gutters.

3. When the plant that it is desired to kill is more sensitive to chemicals than the other plants occupying the same ground, as in the case of mustard in oats, or orange hawk weed in grass.

How Chemicals Act.

Some preparations, as arsenic and carbolic acid, used in weed killing act directly and quickly as plant poisons, others such as common salt may draw the water from the tender green growth, by by holding the soil moisture so that it cannot be used by the plant roots. Young and tender plants in active growth succumb to the plant poison much more readily than do the older plants.

Chemicals Used.

Common Salt.—If applied in quantity in dry hot weather, in very strong solution or dry is effective and not expensive. Most suited against road way or path weeds.

Copper Sulphate.—Used in solutions from 2 to 10 per cent. It is effective against rough leaf plants as the mustards. More powerful in its action than salt, it is expensive. A 3 per cent. solution is used against mustard in grain. Such a solution can be made by dissolving 10 pounds of copper sulphate in 40 gallons of water, and 40 to 50 gallons of this spray are required for each acre treated.

Sulphuric Acid.—This weed killer is rather dangerous to handle. It is destructive to all vegetation to which it may be applied. It must be handled in glass as it destroys metals. Owing to risks in handling, it is not generally recommended.

Caustic Soda.—A strong solution of caustic soda while rendering the soil sterile, is very effective as a weed killer and is used with success against poison ivy and other hardy deep-rooted plants. For best effect it is applied during hot dry weather.

Carbolic Acid.—Crude carbolic acid diluted with 15 to 20 parts of water makes a cheap and effective weed killer. It can be handled with safety and will not injure the spray pump. It is best applied by spraying on the plants, or saturating the surface soil.

Arsenate of Soda.—Arsenate of soda, used at the rate of 1 pound to 3 to 6 gallons of water, is very effective as a killer of obnoxious plants. It may be applied as a spray to the plants or soil. It is very durable, in that it is not readily washed from the soil. Most useful on roads and paths.

White Arsenic and Washing Soda.—These two substances mixed in the following proportions, white arsenic 1 pound and washing soda 2 pounds, with 5 or 6 gallons of water, make a very effective herbicide.

Lawn weeds such as chickweed or orange hawk weed or other juicy leaved weeds can best be combatted by heavy applications of salt. Such should be applied on a hot bright day in July, broadcasting at the rate of two or even four quarts of fine salt per square rod. Try it out on a square yard first to find out what your soil and grass will stand). Rake out the dead weeds, sprinkle on some more grass seed and water well.—clondy weather.

Summer Pruning, Watering and Fertilizers for Roses.

Summer pruning of roses is essential for best results, says Prof. A. H. Tomlinson, of the Ontario Agricultural College. Old flowers should be cut away, and dead growth or weak shoots should be treated likewise. Old flowering shoots, immediately after the flowers have done should be cut back, especially early in the season to a strong prominent bud. With Teas and possibly Hybrid Perpetuals new flowering wood will develop very quickly. When pruning is done a quick acting fertilizer should be distributed over the surface—nitrate of soda, acid phosphate or blood meal. After fertilizing, should the season be dry water the plants well. Early morning or early afternoon are the best periods for the watering of roses, never water late at night except in very hot weather. Mildew and fungus diseases spread rapidly under cold, moist conditions, so do not create such by watering during cool, cloudy weather.—Dept. of Extension, O. A. College.

Chicks Doing Well.

Four thousand O. A. C. chicks, on range, are doing well. Their dry mash is as follows:—

700	pounds	yellow corn meal
500	"	wheat middlings
300	"	oat chop
45	"	bone meal
45	"	fine oyster shell
80	"	alfalfa meal.

1 pint of cod liver oil to each 100 pounds of mash.—Dept. of Extension, O. A. College.

Do not sell good laying hens—cull carefully.

Oh, What a Charge They Made!

The chairman of the gas company was making a popular address.

"Think of the good the gas company has done," he cried. "If I were permitted a pun, I would say, in the words of the immortal poet, 'Honor the light brigade.'"

At this a consumer jumped up with the shout: "Oh, what a charge they made!"

Standard of Dancing Lowered.

Owing to the fact that dance bands play as fast or as slow as they like, Mr. George Chester, president of the British Association of Teachers of Dancing, says that the standard of dancing is getting seriously lowered.

—The— Constitutional Crisis

The constitutional issue is pure political buncombe, designed to divert attention from the King Government's administration of the Customs Department, upon which issue it was ignominiously defeated in the House of Commons.

Here are the vital stubborn facts:

1 In September, 1925, Mr. King was granted dissolution by His Excellency Lord Byng, on the representation that he must be given a chance to secure a clear working majority. He stated at Richmond Hill that if such a majority was not forthcoming, he would not attempt to carry on.

2 In the old Parliament thus dissolved there had been 234 members, of whom 117 were Liberals, 66 were Progressives or Independents and 51 were Conservatives.

3 In the new Parliament, elected in October, 1925, Mr. Meighen had by far the largest group—almost half the total membership of the House. Out of 245 seats the Conservatives had 116, the Liberals 101, the Progressives 24, Labour 2, and Independents 2.

4 Instead of immediately resigning, as he should have done in view of the ground upon which he had been granted dissolution, Mr. King asked for and was granted leave to carry on, on the assurance that he would leave the fate of his administration to Parliament itself.

5 On Friday, June 25th, three separate motions by so-called independents, in support of which Mr. King's Government marshalled its last ounce of strength, were decisively defeated and the original motion of censure, to which the foregoing had been moved in amendment, was still awaiting decision in Parliament when Mr. King asked His Excellency for dissolution on Monday, June 28th.

6 To have granted Mr. King a dissolution under such circumstances would have been a direct denial of the right of Parliament to pass upon the vote of censure then pending.

7 Following Mr. King's resignation, Parliament by a majority of 10 did actually adopt a direct vote of censure on the King Government, and declared it unworthy of confidence or office.

8 It was Mr. King's refusal to follow British precedent in co-operating with the incoming administration to pass supplies and complete the sessional programme that left Mr. Meighen no alternative but to ask for dissolution.

9 Mr. Meighen followed the same course as that adopted by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1911, when he saw that it was impossible to carry on and abruptly dissolved Parliament.

10 If His Excellency had recalled Mr. King to office, he would have done so in the very face of Parliament's vote of censure.

11 Under Mr. King's interpretation of the constitution a Premier need never resign, but could demand dissolution after dissolution, despite the verdict of Parliament or the electorate, and the Governor General must perforce accept his advice.

This is the story. It calls for no comment—it speaks for itself!

The Conservative Party stands solid as a rock for sound British constitutional practice, the maintenance of the British connection, and the right of Canada to enjoy the blessings of stable Government.

"G. H. Q" FOR BOYS' CLOTHING

As every good scout knows "G. H. Q." is "General Headquarters," which to a great many boys means Robinson's. Hundreds of them are intimately acquainted with Robinson's Store, its great stocks, its big business, its low prices.

In our Men's Store our Salesmen are instructed to be extra careful of the Boys' trade—to serve them with the utmost zeal—to be sure and give them special attention, and our goods are chosen with the idea of satisfactory wear and good style at a moderate price.

OUR ARMOUR CLAD BOYS' SUITS

WILL BE SURE TO GIVE YOU SATISFACTION

They are reinforced at the wear spots, like the armour protection of a battleship. The knee, seat and elbow have double thickness of cloth and the pockets too are built to make this suit absolutely boy-proof.

The new shades of Greys, Browns and Fawns are exceptionally pleasing, also the fancy pattern weaves are here in abundance. Double breasted, single breasted, you can take your choice. Prices $5.00 to $15.00.

ONE WOOL BED BLANKET THAT EQUALS A PAIR

BUY KENWOOD'S FOR SATISFACTION

That is one reason why so many people are so wonderfully satisfied with Kenwood pure wool Bed Blankets.

One Kenwood equals in warmth two ordinary blankets. That is why only one Kenwood blanket 60 x 84 in. for twin beds, or 72 x 84 for full sized beds is needed.

These sizes make Kenwood's easier to handle, easier to wash, less expensive to launder, better looking, longer wearing.

Selected lustrous long fibre wool, high, fleecy nap, warmth with lightness, beauty of color and pattern, satin binding, are other reasons why Kenwood Blankets should be your blankets. They come in plain shades, also checks in shades of Blue, Tan, Rose, Aprico, Green and Mauve. Priced at $8.00 each for 60 x 84 and $9.75 each for 72 x 84.

Quality, Service, Value.
